

I KNOW THE SKY IS NOT THE LIMIT AT THE FAA.

Professional Opportunities

At the FAA, an agency that oversees the U.S. aviation system — the world's biggest and busiest — there is no limit to how high your career can climb. We are looking for intelligent, dedicated individuals interested in pursuing challenging work where personal initiative can take you places. We seek candidates for the following professional opportunities:

Administrative Officers

Contracting Specialists

Management and Program Analysts

Budget Analysts

Human Resource Management Specialists

Logistics Specialists

Qualifications

Qualifications and required experience vary based on position, location and management level. You must be a United States citizen.

To find out more about the FAA and our outstanding career opportunities and benefits, visit our Career Web site at <http://jobs.faa.gov>.

The FAA does not discriminate on the basis of political affiliation, race, color, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, marital status, age, disability, or any other characteristic not bearing on job performance.

On an individual case basis, this agency also makes reasonable accommodations for applicants with disabilities.

When the FAA was established by the Federal Aviation Act of 1958, our primary responsibility was the safety of civil aviation. Today we operate the world's largest aviation system. We are responsible for the safety and certification of aircraft and pilots, for the around-the-clock operation of our nation's air traffic control system, and for the regulation of U.S. commercial space transportation. We're looking for employees to help us maintain our place as the world leader in aviation. So, if you have ambitious goals, this is the place to realize them.